Morgan Sindall plc hosts meet the buyer event in Exeter

Morgan Sindall plc is inviting the local supply chain to a special 'Meet the Team' event to strengthen existing connections and develop new relationships with local contractors in Devon and Cornwall and Somerset.

The event, which is open to any interested tradespeople, will be held on Wednesday 16 September at Exeter Racecourse with a morning and afternoon session. The company, which is currently working on a number of projects across the South West, is looking to boost local employment opportunities and involvement by giving contractors the chance to learn more about Morgan Sindall and how the company operates across the region.

The day will consist of brief presentations on key areas and will provide an outline of Morgan Sindall's potential pipeline of work in the region. Most importantly, the event will enable contractors to get involved and develop a relationship with the local Morgan Sindall representatives, discuss opportunities and understand the exciting possibilities ahead.

Keith Letten, regional head of supply chain at Morgan Sindall, said: "This is a really great opportunity for local trades to come forward and meet with Morgan Sindall representatives and learn more about the values and processes which inform the way we work. They will be able to get a deeper understanding of Morgan Sindall as a business and what we are looking for from our supply chain. We would like to invite trades we already work with and also ones that would be interested in working with us in the future.

"Boosting local employment and ensuring that we're connecting and engaging with local companies is a real priority for Morgan Sindall. We're committed to developing local relationships and ensuring that our projects have a positive economic impact on the communities where they are based. There are fantastic tradespeople in the area and we want to make sure we're using this well of talent and skill.

"Our business is built on long-term relationships with our supply chain partners and we're always very keen to work with local communities and involve local trades. This one-stop-shop event provides the perfect opportunity for us to meet local tradespeople and give them a platform to put themselves forward for opportunities which may arise during the developments."

If you are interested in attending this event please contact Morgan Sindall's Plymouth office on 01752 672621 to book your place.
